

How to Hire Wedding Officiant / Minister

- 1). Google, Google, Google..... Oklahoma City Wedding Officiants, Justice of the Peace, Minister's to begin getting a list of possible Officiants to officiate your wedding. Once you get the names of a few of them then Google, Google, Google them individually. You need to determine who they are before you schedule a consultation. Be sure that they are respectable and honorable both as professionals and individuals. Search for both their company and personal name. It can be reassuring when making your decision.
- 2). Consult with an Oklahoma City Officiant recommended by your friends or family members.
- 3). Ask a professional wedding planner or other wedding vendors for referrals to consider if you are unable to find an Officiant in Oklahoma City. Search for and read any reviews.
- 4). Ask potential Officiants about their training and experience. Ask how many weddings they have performed what types of wedding ceremony and if they require anything of the couple. They should be able to answer, explain the process to you even if you do not ask any questions. Because of their past experience.
- 5). Request information about fees before you hire an Oklahoma wedding minister for your wedding. Get all the fees clearly stated up front in before scheduling your wedding so there are no surprises. Some have hidden fees so be sure to ask. Ask what all is included in their fee.
- 6). Schedule a consultation to interview and discuss your wedding. During the interview ask questions, see how they interact with you in person, handle situations and ask for references. Once you have completed your consultation then go home and discuss what you as a couple think about the Officiant. Don't make and haste decisions on the spot.
- 7). Hire a wedding Officiant you are comfortable being around. Your wedding day is exciting enough without questioning the ability of the Oklahoma City Officiant to perform a beautiful ceremony. You should be confident and secure that they have the experience to co create the wedding of your dreams.
- 8) Sit back and enjoy creating your dream wedding and leave all the stress to the professionals after all if they actually know what they are doing it will be an easy process for you.
